Fishy freedom

April 30, 2008

Brendan Jacob [left] and Sophie Kjernisted release chum salmon fry into the waters of Chalet Creek. The students of Deep Cove school all came down to the creek over the course of a day to release a fry, incubated and born at the Goldstream Hatchery, into the stream. Peninsula Streams has been spearheading a restoration of the creek, which empties into Deep Cove, for a number of years now and the partnership with the school-district wide Stream Team will hopefully see adult fish returning to the stream in a few years.
